

I finally felt like I had enough time on this one. I implement all of the specified features and used connection pools for extra credit. I cleaned up the CSS and included unique images for each product, storing the Image URL in the DB.

Additionally I had a lot of errors related to session tracking which I was able to correct.